Advancing Health and Equity through Community-Academic Partnerships

COMMUNITY-DRIVEN RESEARCH DAY encourages collaborations between researchers and community-based organizations (CBOs) and community groups who have research questions that they are interested in answering, specifically in ways that address social determinants of health. Through an interactive poster session, CBOs and community groups will highlight their questions to CDRD participants, who will include area non-profits, community groups, public sector partners, and researchers from The Children's Hospital of Philadelphia, The University of Pennsylvania, Temple University, Drexel University, Thomas Jefferson University, and the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine. CBOs, community groups, academic researchers, and students will be able to meet and discuss potential, mutually-beneficial collaborations.

Keynote Speaker: This event will include a keynote presentation by Melicia Whitt-Glover, PhD, President and CEO of Gramercy Research Group and Executive Director for the Council on Black Health, Inc. For over 20 years, Dr. Whitt-Glover has been engaged in research and evaluation projects designed to identify effective strategies to promote adherence to national recommendations for physical activity, diet, and healthy weight gain to address disparities in chronic disease morbidity and mortality.

Presenters - CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

CBOs and community groups interested in developing partnerships to conduct research are urged to participate in an interactive virtual poster presentation that will highlight the organization's/group's mission, goals, and major accomplishments. Posters/Powerpoint will also display questions that they are interested in answering about partnering for advancing health and equity.

Submissions are due Monday, January 10, 2022.
